
This is an important phase in the history of community sustainability in Staveley.

The Sustainable Energy Network Staveley (SENS) was originally born around the on questions of ownership, which have never clearly been resolved. However, in

Green Travel initiative (GTi) 2009

~Summer 2008

idea for a hydro scheme at the Barley Bridge Weir, but difficulties quickly arose about a year after the group was started, the decision had been made to work with a broader sustainability agenda, which has had a great impact on how community sustainability evolved afterwards.

Discussions about

Barley Bridge Weir Hydro Scheme

ownership, licensing and

Low-carbon Lake District

Lake District National Park Authority

`-----

2004 October 2007 November 2007

Initially organised by one person, and later as part of SENS. The Hydro Scheme Group becomes a subgroup of SENS over time.

Sustainable Energy Network Staveley